Marketing and management strategies are used widely, and involve creating communication and value for a product or service. Consumer trends move at a heightened pace, and therefore it is imperative that research and data analysis on pricing, methods of promotion, location, logistics and human resources are being conducted consistently.

In world where options are numerous and public opinion counts, marketing and management experts have to learn to develop strategies that are in line with the times, that take into account brand penetration, market development, product improvement as well as diversification of services.

Marketing and management involve many areas of study, with each part enhancing the understanding of how a product or service should be managed and marketed. These areas of study include advertising and brand management, statistics and customer behaviour, as well as areas such as international business and business communication.
